Celebrating Our Local Authors!

We were so very pleased to see a full page ad in the New York Times Book Review for Seattle author, Robert Dugoni, and his latest thrillers, The Eighth Sister and The Last Agent.

There may be something about our peaceful Northwest climate that inspires so many first class authors. We do our best to keep all of their books in stock. The little fir tree on the spine will help you locate them. This picture can't begin to show them all. Even the beautiful stone bookends in the photo were crafted by a local artist and are for sale in our store.

Enjoy the list and mark any you may have missed.
